Anybody's Guess About Conference

GENEVA, June 1 (AP)—How long will the Big Four conference—now starting its fourth week—last?

Four officials of as many nationalities—American, British, French, West German—came up with four different guesses at a Western strategy meeting today: 10 days, 12 days, two weeks and "maybe four weeks."

Bitter Debate Flares Anew Over Berlin

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
GENEVA (AP)—A Communist East German spokesman declared in the Big Four conference today that West Berlin is "a powderkeg which can ignite a world atomic conflagration."

In a slashing attack on all the Western powers in the divided city, East German Foreign Minister Lothar Bolz said dozens of subversive and espionage organizations operate in West Berlin against the whole Soviet bloc.

Ambassador Wilhelm Grewe of West Germany, also addressing the conference at the Palace of Nations, accused the Communists of carrying on "mud-slinging, slanderous agitation and propaganda" since the beginning of the Geneva talks three weeks ago.

GENEVA (AP)—The Big Four march to the summit was bogged down today in an angry East-West argument over the use of divided Berlin as an espionage and propaganda battlefield in the cold war.

The argument flared in secret talks between the Western and (Turn to Page Ten)

Gibson Associates To Aid Countians At State Capital

In a statement telephoned from Harrisburg this morning from State Senator LeRoy Chapman and Representative James K. Davis of Forest County, the Times-Mirror was advised that Assemblyman Davis will be glad to work with Senator Chapman in handling Harrisburg errands for Warren county constituents of the late Assemblyman Allen M. Gibson, until such time as the Warren house seat is again occupied by a new representative.

Representative Davis and the late Mr. Gibson were friends and worked closely together in Harrisburg in the past. The Hon. Mr. Davis had answered considerable routine mail and performed essential errands for Warren county constituents during several of Mr. Gibson's recent illnesses.

Although no official comment was forthcoming from the (Turn to Page Ten)

Timely Information About New County Re-assessment

By this time property owners throughout the county have undoubtedly received notices to the effect that the county-wide re-assessment of all property has been completed as required by law. The purpose of the re-assessment has been to equalize all property assessments so that everyone is taxed on a fair basis in relation to the real value of his property. The appraisal by qualified experts and engineers established the 100% real value of property with assessments set at half, or 50%.

The fact that a person's assessment may be higher than it appeared in 1958 does not necessarily mean that he will be required to pay more taxes. The assessment merely provides a basis for the taxes which are set and levied by the various taxing bodies, i.e. council (in boroughs), county and school board.

Taxpayers are reminded, however, that under the law, neither local or county are permitted to increase their income more than 5%; the school board being allowed a 10% maximum increase. To date (Turn to Page Ten)

Long Faces New Round Of Diagnosis

BULLETIN
GALVESTON, Tex. (AP)—Louisiana Gov. Earl K. Long still resists psychiatric treatment, his doctors said today. There were unconfirmed reports his family may formally commit the governor, thus forcing treatment. A spokesman for John Sealy Hospital said the stormy governor cooperates with doctors making physical examinations but continues to resist certain lines of psychiatric questioning.

By JIM BOWMAN
GALVESTON, Tex. (AP)—Louisiana's ailing Gov. Earl K. Long, described Monday as "somewhat resistant" to psychiatric examination, faces another round of diagnosis today.

The governor, 63, has given no hint a physical breakdown might force him to resign, a nephew, Sen. Russell Long (D-La.), said Monday night.

"He is responding in some ways but he is somewhat resistant to more thorough examinations," Dr. John B. Truslow said in the latest of several guarded statements about the Louisiana chief executive.

In reply to questions, Dr. Truslow told newsmen Gov. Long was not violent and had not been confined in a strait-jacket.

The governor, a brother of the late U. S. Sen. and Gov. Huey P. Long, flew to Galveston Saturday and entered a private psychiatric clinic at John Sealy Hospital. Dr. Truslow is director of the University of Texas medical branch which operates the hospital.

Specialists examining the governor will require another day or two to arrive at a definite diagnosis and start treatment, the physician said. A hospital bulletin said a mild bronchial congestion was clearing up.

Sen. Long arrived late Monday by chartered plane.

Sen. Long said he assumes the governor will be able to take up official duties again before his term of office expires in about a year.

Neither the senator nor Dr. Truslow commented directly on whether Gov. Long might seek to leave the clinic.

Under Texas law, a hospital may hold a patient up to 96 hours against his will. After that, it is necessary to obtain a court order committing a patient for either a 90-day observation period or for treatment.

Hospital officials have pointed out that Gov. Long entered the clinic voluntarily and they lack authority to keep him from leaving if he so desires.

Meany Calls for War Steel Negotiations Are Resuming Today

NEW YORK (AP)—Contract negotiations in the basic steel industry resume here today, with the deadline for reaching agreement four weeks away.

Talks between four-man teams representing the 12 largest steel companies and the United Steelworkers of America have been in recess for a week.

The three-year contract covering 500,000 union members expires June 30. If no new contract is agreed on by that time, there almost certainly will be a strike in plants that produce 90 per cent of the nation's steel.

Negotiations have been held on and off since May 5.

Rumor About Lloyd May Be Investigated

By DENNIS NEEDL
LONDON (AP)—Prime Minister Harold Macmillan told the House of Commons today he hopes to be working together with Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd "for a very long time."

Macmillan's statement came after laborite Emanuel Shinwell asked if the Prime Minister could say who was responsible for "inspired statements that the foreign secretary is to be replaced."

LONDON (AP)—British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan today was reported planning a personal investigation to track down the source of a British newspaper report that he will move Foreign Minister Selwyn Lloyd to another Cabinet post after the next general election.

The angry prime minister fired off a cable to Lloyd at the Geneva Big Four conference assuring him there was no foundation for the report in the usually authoritative London Times.

Macmillan acted swiftly to counter any idea the sensational report might have raised that Britain's spokesman at the Geneva talks did not have the government's full confidence. The Times report suggested a new man and a new policy might be needed at the Foreign Office after the summit conference expected in the summer.

The British government also was understood to have assured the Western allies that the 54-year-old Lloyd would be speaking for Britain for some considerable time to come.

Cleveland South Side Is Visited By Flash Floods

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)—Greater Cleveland's South Side mopped up today after flash floods that caused damage estimated to run into millions of dollars.

Torrential rains turned many streets into muddy lakes and rivers at the start of Monday afternoon's rush hour. The storm lasted about an hour and in that time one suburb, University Heights, recorded 3.9 inches of rain.

Dozens of marooned motorists and occupants of two flooded buses were rescued. The buses were almost completely submerged in Cleveland's University Circle area, where some of the heaviest flooding occurred.

Thirty-three persons were treated for exposure.

Thousands of basements were flooded, storm sewers were torn away, and sidewalks washed away.

Mayor Anthony J. Celebrezze of Cleveland said damage to city property alone might exceed a million dollars. Mayor Earl W. Aurelius of University Heights estimated loss in that southeast suburb at $300,000; and Shaker Heights Mayor Wilson G. Stapleton estimated $100,000 damage in that fashionable residential suburb.

Students from nearby Case Institute of Technology and Western Reserve University helped in the dramatic rescue of bus passengers from the fast-rising waters that poured down Cedar Hill and cascaded into the lake in front of Cleveland Art Museum.

Dial Service Coming to Warren Next Sunday Morning at 3:01

Wire Chief John Freund, left, and Ernie Follette, switchman, of Bell Telephone Company, make the final tests on the new dial office which goes into service Sunday, June 7 at 3:01 a. m.

Dial telephone service comes to Warren next Sunday morning at 3:01 A. M. (EDST).

At that time, following a three-day observance of "Randolph Days," the Bell Telephone Company of Pennsylvania's new Randolph central office will be placed in operation and new two-letter-five-figure RAndolph numbers will become effective for all Warren telephones.

The Warren Chamber of Commerce is sponsoring the "Randolph Days" celebration with approximately 50 local merchants participating. Highlights of the celebration will include special window displays throughout the town, an essay contest for fourth, fifth and sixth grade pupils and drawings for color telephones and new "gossip bench" telephone tables.

The Chamber of Commerce is providing the color telephones to be awarded to lucky ticket holders and the telephone company will present Dial-O safety driving games to winning essayists as well as personal directories for general distribution here.

When the new RAndolph office is placed in service, the modern system which makes it possible for individual and two-party telephone users to dial calls direct to telephones in many distant part of the United States and Canada will also be introduced here.

Michigan Town Sorrowed by Mine Disaster

IRON RIVER, Mich. (AP)—Sorrow burdened this northern Michigan mining community today in the wake of Monday's underground "beaching hell" disaster that killed five men.

Thanks was also given that the tragedy was no worse.

Survivors' accounts of the peril deep within the Inland Steel Co. Sherwood iron mine in nearby Mineral Hills indicated that but for warnings, including the telltale odor of gas, the death toll might have been far greater.

The five who died were trapped by sulphurous gas and flames that shot out from the collapse of a walled-up excavation.

Philadelphia Man New Assistance Manager

HARRISBURG (AP)—William B. Tollen of Philadelphia will become the first commissioner of public assistance in the State Public Welfare Department.

Gov. Lawrence Monday appointed Tollen to the post, effective July 6. It was created by the merger of the Public Assistance and welfare departments last year. It pays $14,637 a year.

Tollen, who worked in the Public Assistance Department from 1934 to 1943, now is assistant to the director of research in the Children's Bureau of the U. S. Department of Health.

OVER SCORE SPECTATORS ARE INJURED

SCHUYLKILL HAVEN, Pa. (AP)—A gasoline tanker exploded today on a heavily traveled eastern Pennsylvania highway killing at least 11 persons. Some of the victims were as far as 100 yards from the blast.

"The tanker let loose and flames swept up the road like a ball of fire killing people gathered around a trooper directing traffic," State Police Sgt. Melvin Clouser reported.

Frank Toohy, Pottsville Republican reporter said parts of bodies were strewn over the highway. He said the death toll might reach as high as 12. More than a score of injured were taken to nearby hospitals.

State police and others at the early morning scene said the victims included firemen battling flames on the burning tanker and motorists and pedestrians gathered at what was believed to be safe distances away.

There were conflicting reports as to how the tanker caught fire. State police said there was no collision, but several eyewitnesses asserted the tanker and a propane gas tank collided.

The explosion, about 100 miles northeast of Philadelphia on Route 122, a highway known as the Reading-Hamburg road, occurred during the crush of early morning traffic. Several loaded school buses were in the area.

Ron Kramer, 39, a school bus driver, said he saw the tanker and the propane gas truck collide. When he saw the flames shoot up, he swerved his bus, with 40 children aboard, across a field to safety. Another bus, with 45 children aboard, had just passed the accident scene and kept moving.

Vincent Ney, chief photographer for the Pottsville Republican, telephoned his paper from the scene. He said it was impossible to determine the number of dead and injured.

"Heads, legs and bodies are scattered everywhere. I saw six bodies lying in one field alongside the highway."

Ney said he was told that a tractor trailer and a propane gas truck had collided on Route 122, known locally as the Pottsville-Philadelphia pike. State police, however, said there was no collision.

Hearings Open On Rate Boosts For Blue Cross

HARRISBURG (AP)—The State Insurance Department was to begin hearings today on rate increases averaging up to 42.4 per cent sought by four Blue Cross organizations.

The increases were asked by the Associated Hospital Service of Western Pennsylvania, Pittsburgh; Associated Hospital Service of Philadelphia; Associated Hospital Service of Northeastern Pennsylvania, Wilkes-Barre; and Capital Hospital Service, Harrisburg.

The only Pennsylvania Blue Cross organization not to file for an increase was Lehigh Valley of Allentown, which got a rate increase recently.

The insurance department listed these average proposed increases: Philadelphia, 23.3 per cent; Capital, 28.6 per cent; Pittsburgh, 33.3 per cent for its less comprehensive plan and 42.4 per cent for its standard plan; and Northeastern, 34.7 per cent.

Mental Patient Apprehended for Wife's Murder

HOBART, Okla. (AP)—A two-state manhunt for Clark Brillhart ended abruptly Monday with his capture by a state highway patrolman. He was returned here charged with the crowbar bludgeoning of his mother.

The stocky, sullen mental patient was sighted near El Reno, Okla., and arrested by highway patrolman Lt. R. E. Frusher. Brillhart said he was en route here to give himself up. He had been sought in Oklahoma and Texas.

He is to be arraigned today on a murder charge in connection with his mother's death. A murder charge in the fatal beating of his father may also be lodged against Brillhart.

Brillhart, 24, en route to the jail here Monday night, said "Maybe it was wrong, but it had to be done."

Earlier he told police and newsmen at El Reno, "It was a terrible thing to do. I don't know why I did it."

Final Tally Shows 310 Traffic Deaths

By The Associated Press
A final tally shows a record 310 persons died in traffic accidents during the two-day Memorial Day weekend.

The traffic toll during the 54-hour period shot far past the old record of 241 for a two-day Memorial Day holiday set in 1953.

During the weekend there were 101 drownings and 47 deaths from miscellaneous accidents for an over-all total of 458, breaking the 1953 record of 385.

Surrender of Fugitive Ends Night of Terror

LACONA, Iowa (AP)—A dazed old soldier climbed out of a ditch and crawled into a deputy sheriff's car late Monday night.

"Gettin' kinda chilly, ain't it?" he remarked to special deputy Russ Smith of Des Moines.

Smith ended a night of terror for the 430 residents of this south-central Iowa town.

The man was Ray Hardman, 68, who was held in the county jail today in connection with the shotgun killing of his daughter Grace Hardman, 25, and the wounding of a neighbor boy, Don Neer, 12.

Smith and state highway patrolman Jack Gorman were among more than 25 peace officers who converged upon the town Monday night.

Gorman got out of the car to check a grain elevator about 11:45 p. m. That's when Hardman crawled out of the ditch, and the manhunt was over.

One of Two Space Monkeys Dies During an Operation

WASHINGTON (AP)—Able, one of the two monkeys which rode a missile 300 mile into space, died Monday night while undergoing an operation for removal of a recording instrument. The Army said death did not result from any effect of the flight itself.

The seven-pound Rhesus monkey, a passenger in the nose cone of a Jupiter rocket on a 1,500-mile space run Thursday, died at 10:45 p. m. EST.

The cause of death was rapid and convulsive movement of the (Turn to Page Ten)

YOUR CHILD'S MOST IMPORTANT PULL

Paul Steinkamp, chairman of the Water Safety Program of the Warren County Red Cross Chapter offers this timely reminder for parents of the area.

Seven thousand and some odd number of persons will lose their lives by drowning this year. A large percentage of these drownings could be a short "pull" to safety or shore. Most drownings are caused by falling off a dock, into ponds, stepping into drop-offs, tumbling out of boats, etc.

With the bathing season starting, make it a must to see that your child, or children, learn to swim.

Beginning classes are taught the year around at the Warren YMCA. Red Cross is conducting an outdoor class. Be sure he or she is included in the swimming program.

Learning to swim provides the individual with the ability to "pull" himself, or herself, through water.

Give your child Life's most important "pull"—a "pull" to safety!

PAYS TO READ YOUR NEWSPAPER

The value of reading a newspaper is well established. In a changing world, following the news is a continuing education for any thoughtful person. And in the field of thrift and specific benefits, a single advertisement of a needed bargain often saves more than the cost of the newspaper for a year.

Even after being read and discarded, newspapers have many uses. In this respect, they clearly are much superior to rival media. You cannot wrap a fish or start a fire with last night's television program.

More rewards of newspaper reading continue to turn up. An expensive New York charm school, for example, tells feminine students eager to make a hit with men to read a good newspaper regularly. It will give them something to talk about, will show that they are bright and alert.

A new Harper's book on the drug industry, "The Merchants of Life", by Tom Mahoney adds another testimonial as to the power of the press. A scientist of the Upjohn Co. at Kalamazoo, Michigan, in 1954 read one day in the Detroit Free Press of a new German drug that when taken by mouth promised to control diabetes, previously controlled only by daily injections of insulin.

Samples of the drug were ordered by cable. Tests proved its usefulness for many patients. As a result of the scientist reading the news item, Upjohn today has annual sales of $20,000,000 in the drug and 400,000 American diabetes patients have been freed from bothersome and painful injections.

Now even the most reactionary of us feet-on-the-ground type of citizens must take travel more seriously. It has been done. Re-entry into the atmosphere has been accomplished successfully—with passengers. And the passengers were picked up, apparently none the worse for a journey probing 300 miles above the earth and attaining 10,000 mph. The fact that they were monkeys is of little importance. It has long been established that what a monkey can do, man can do.

WORLD TODAY

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP)—Those two Louisiana brothers, Gov. Earl K. Long and one-time Sen. Huey P. Long, had some things in common besides a thirst for power and the persuasiveness to get the people of the state to give it to them.

In a sense they were political primitives with passionate bursts of fury, unbelievable energy, roughness, toughness, profanity.

They turned name-calling into a kind of art form.

The front page stories of Gov. Long's violent and vituperative screaming and shouting for more than an hour in the state Legislature last week may have shocked those with no schooling in Louisiana politics.

But the people of the state, particularly those friends and critics who urged him to seek medical care after his performance, were probably more disturbed by the length of what he did than by the nature of it.

They were used to it, but not to this degree. This time Long outdid himself. He seemed to know it for he went to a psychiatric hospital and is under observation there now.

If this is the end of his career, it is quieter than his brother's. Huey was assassinated in 1935. These brothers could win elections overwhelmingly. But both had big blocs of enemies. Many people hated Huey. Those familiar with the inside of recent Louisiana politics say many hate Earl, too.

This writer, who worked in Louisiana 24 years, knew both brothers and, although I met them years apart, the first meeting with each showed some of the similarity between them. What they said was not meant for the ears of little children.

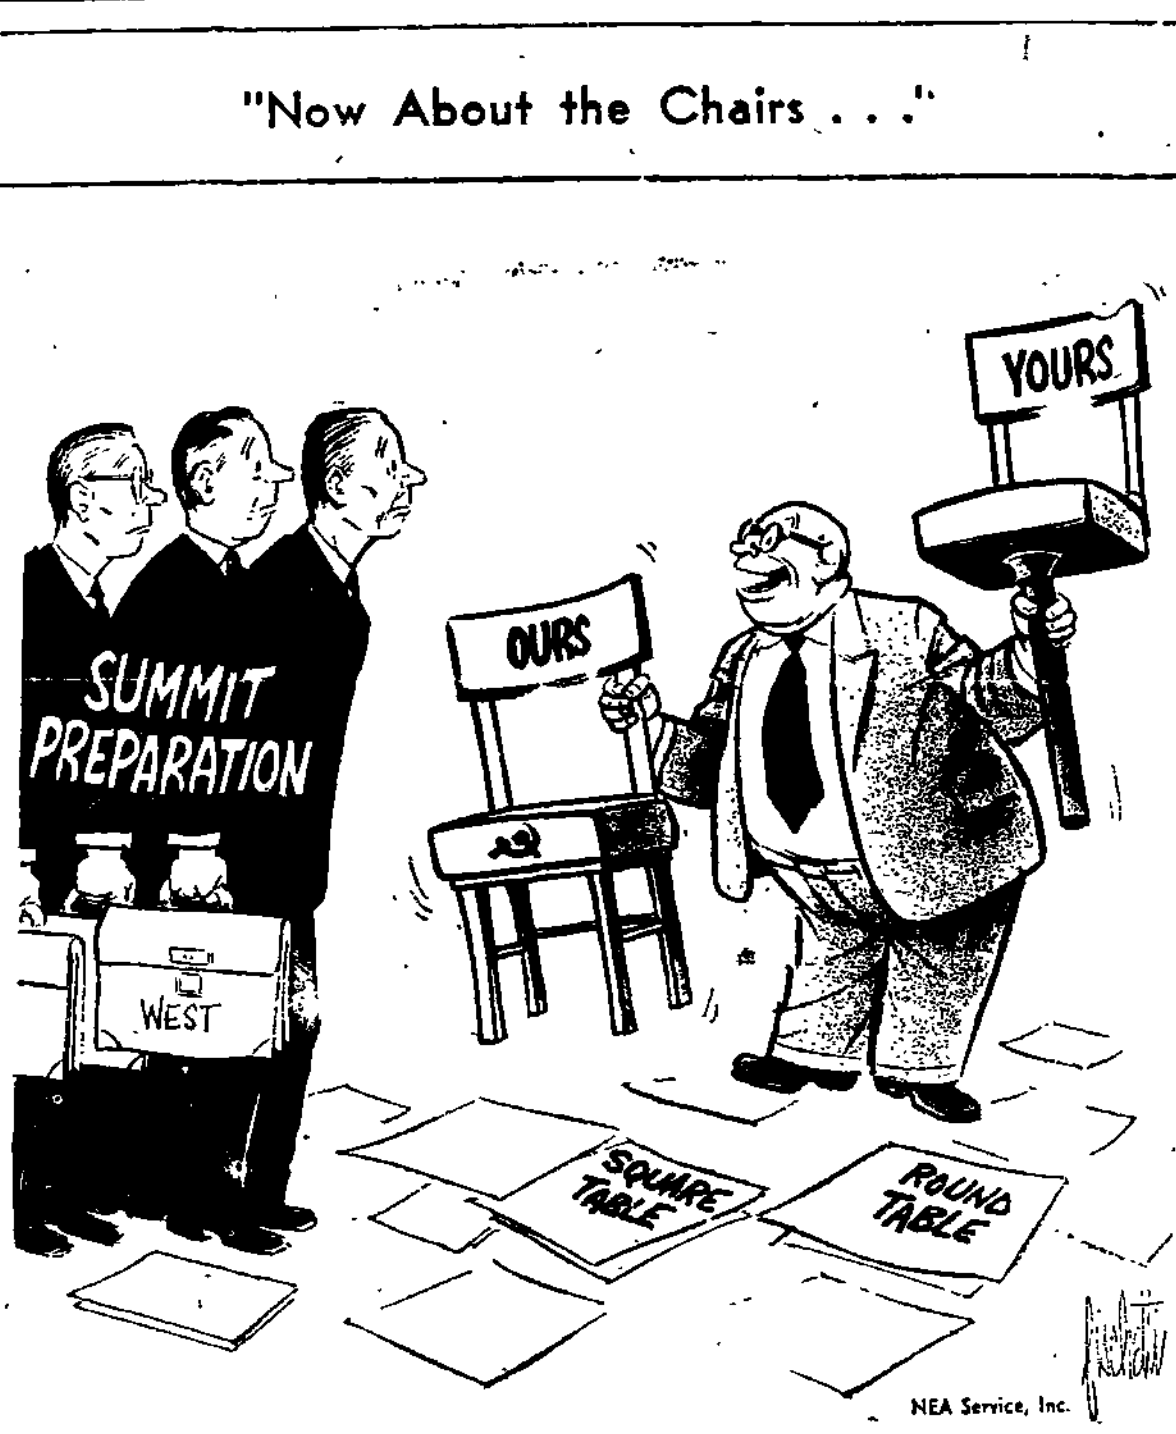

In 1927, one week after I had found a job on the New Orleans Item-Tribune and before Huey Long had become nationally famous, the city editor told me to run down to a hotel and ask Long what he was doing in town. I asked who he was.

The city editor said: "Oh, he's just another one of those candidates for governor." What he didn't tell me was that Long and the Item-Tribune were nasty enemies. I went to the hotel, called Long on the house telephone. I told him I was a reporter from the Item-Tribune and wanted to see him.

He shouted into the phone: "A reporter from the Item-Tribune. I wouldn't talk to a reporter from that"—newspaper if it was the last—"newspaper in the world. That"—newspaper is to newspaper work what the red light district is to the city."

Twelve years later, although I had seen Earl Long many times, I went to a downtown hotel to interview him for the first time.

Here and There

Properly managing a home in today's complex world calls for a wide scope of knowledge and ability. In fact, millions of wives must be experts in dozens of skills while their husbands, supposedly much more highly trained, are masters of only one specialty. For its far-reaching contributions to the science of being a homemaker in the 20th Century, the American Home Economics Association is being honored during 1959—its golden anniversary year. Founded in 1909 to develop better methods of family management and home maintenance, the Association enters its second half-century with a record of solid achievement and with a program realistically geared to rapidly changing, social and economic conditions. Unheralded and quietly, the home economics profession has done immeasurable good for humanity. Besides giving basic education in child development, nutrition, budget management, textiles and clothing and many other subjects to millions of today's homemakers, it has through research and education greatly improved standards of nutrition, home planning and equipment, textile uses and labeling, family expenditures, and promoted the application of science to the home. Today, 46,000 home economists teach in high schools, colleges and universities, and in adult education; 2,500 help industry develop better products to meet the homemaker's needs; others work in government, welfare, and in dietetics and other specialties. In addition, they cooperate with home economists throughout the world to raise the status of women, and to improve living standards and family life everywhere—thus lessening a major cause of strife. It is fortunate that this profession has developed so rapidly and soundly, and that educators generally recognize its essentiality in modern education. Education for living is important regardless of whether we live in a space age or another age yet undreamed of. Home economics, as the science of the home, deserves a tribute on its 50th anniversary.

Profits High, Wages Ideal; Steel Talkers Talk On

BY PETER EDSON
NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON—(NEA)—Steel wage negotiations now under way in New York present a much bigger, long-range problem than whether the steelworkers will again lead the way to another round of pay raises for all union labor.

You can take your pick of two theories about this subject. U. S. Steel Corp. President Roger M. Blough says that the upward spiraling of American wages must be halted but that profits today are too low for the good of the country.

United Steelworkers President David J. McDonald insists that wages must continue to go up and that they can be covered from the too-high steel industry profits without raising steel prices.

Obviously both can't be right. But the problem of determining which one is right stumps not only the bargainers themselves but also the government and the rest of the country.

There is a public suspicion that prices and wages can't keep on going up forever without somebody getting hurt. But nobody knows how to bring the balloon down safely.

President Eisenhower has a cabinet committee under Vice President Nixon studying price stability and economic growth. But it isn't concerning itself with the steel negotiations or wage and profit levels as its first business.

So Sen. Clifford P. Case (R-N.J.) suggests that President Eisenhower call an annual White House conference of labor, management and government representatives to discuss wages, prices, profits and productivity in their relationship to national economic objectives.

In his State of the Union message last January Eisenhower did propose a non-governmental commission to determine America's goals. He called for long-range, five or 10 year plans for the nation's social and economic well-being. But the idea has been dormant ever since because nobody can be found who is big enough to head it up.

So things drift along. The administration apparently hopes that the steel barons and the labor barons will get together and work out a nice peaceable solution so that the problem it raises will go away.

There is no governmental thought that wages or prices or profits should be controlled. To do so would take away all incentives for growth. And it would destroy the great American doctrine that there must be a constantly increasing standard of living for everyone.

Still there is in the background this haunting fear that further wage, price and profit increases will lead to inflation. But nobody does anything about it.

The "rubber barons" of big business who flourished from the early 1800s to the great depression of the 1930s learned the hard way that the public can't be damned.

For all labor barons, who seem to be on the rise, it cannot be said they have an awareness that the people are beginning to resent their arrogance. They play big politics and try to tell the government where to head in, running their rackets and issuing decrees from roccoco palace headquarters springing up all over Washington. Labor's public relations are lousy. This is the impression given by the McClellan hearings.

If the steel wage negotiations break down and result in a long strike, it will play right into the hands of ultraconservatives and reactionaries who are now trying to impose tighter regulation on all unions. If that happens, it could be labor's own fault.

Radio and TV

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK (AP)—Some years ago when Matthew J. Culligan, executive vice president in charge of the NBC radio network, was in kneepants, his father took him aside for a heart-to-heart talk on the viciousness of racial, religious and national prejudice.

The elder Culligan opened his discourse by reading his son an employment ad from the New York Times of 50 years ago which concluded with the words, "Irish need not apply."

Joe Culligan never forgot his father's talk and that ad. Seeds planted then are bearing a harvest on NBC radio this week—and for three weeks to come.

"Image Minorities" is the subject of some 20 hours of special programming which will be heard on NBC "Monitor Summertime" Mondays through Thursdays for four weeks.

"This is not an angry expose," says Culligan, who wears a black eye-patch and stares at you piercingly with a single bright blue Irish eye. "Rather it's an attempt at exposition. We hope to build a platform which proves on the record that most minorities in this country have moved out of the area of being 'problem minorities.'"

It's a stimulating idea and when you think back over our history, generally true. Grandfathers can remember the time when Irishmen were frowned on by some who'd beat them across the Atlantic by a few years.

The melting pot has kept bubbling, with Jews, Scandinavians, Italians becoming a part of the American broth. If you want to go away back, there never was a more difficult minority for the earliest Americans to swallow than those pale-faced Puritans of the Massachusetts Bay Colony.

Coming down to our times, Culligan points to Orientals, Puerto Ricans, Mexicans, Negroes and others.

In the course of the "Image Minorities" series listeners will hear from such diverse persons as Vice President Richard M. Nixon, former heavyweight champion Gene Tunney, former U.S. and Naturalization Edward Corsi, Harry Golden, author of the best-selling "Only in America." Bob Considine is the narrator of the series.

"We want to show the contributions to American life made by minorities," says Culligan, "and so give a message to those who still have it to do."

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is inclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

EYE INFLAMMATION

The conjunctiva is the thin membrane that lines the eyelids and covers the exposed part of the eyeball. It is so sensitive, the smallest particle or slightest irritation is felt immediately and brings tears to the eyes.

This membrane is injured easily by overexposure to light, wind, or smoke. It is affected also by overuse or abuse of the eyes, refractive errors, faulty glasses, a speck of dust or steel, and by a turned-in lash. Overindulgence in alcohol makes the eyes bloodshot and watery. These conditions are temporary and disappear, as a rule, when the cause is removed.

A more disabling form of conjunctivitis develops when the delicate membrane is invaded by micro-organisms. In such instances, the lids swell and become brilliant red. A discharge oozes from between the lids. Its consistency depends upon the causative organisms and the excretion varies from a clear watery substance to pus. The secretions accumulate during sleep, and dry on the edges of the lids, which itch, burn and feel sandy.

Many variations of conjunctivitis are noted. The reflection from sunlight on snow may lead to severe irritation (snow blindness) similar to that produced by exposure to an ultraviolet lamp. The welder who does not wear a protective shield may encounter a similar reaction.

Various infections may spread to the eye through contaminated droplets, fingers, towels, and handkerchiefs. Pink-eye is an extremely contagious form of acute conjunctivitis that occurs most often in the spring and summer. Inflammation of this type may accompany coryza of the nose, hay fever, flu, and measles.

For additional information send a stamped, self-addressed envelope to Dr. Van Dellen for leaflet on conjunctivitis.

Conjunctivitis never should be neglected. The ophthalmologist may test the secretions to determine the cause and prescribe a specific treatment. Ice compresses are soothing and the eyes may be irrigated several times a day with a dilute saline solution. Ointments containing a sulfonamide may prove helpful. The antibiotics may be needed but they are best administered orally or hypodermically.

TOMORROW: Cancer of the larynx.

SOLE WARTS

J. Z. writes: "Are plantar warts contagious? I have one on my left sole and want to know if I should take precautions to protect the other members of the family."

Reply

Some are, especially those caused by a filterable virus. The contagious variety is more common in children than in adults. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for our leaflet on plantar warts.

BLISTERED SKIN

R. H. writes: "Is it true that pemphigus no longer is fatal and that it can be kept under control with cortisone?"

Reply

The corticosteroids have made a marked change in the outlook of victims of this disease in which large blisters form over various parts of the body. The cause of this serious skin disease is not known.

NOSE RECONSTRUCTION

K. L. writes: "I know a long nose can be bobbed but what of a short nose that is too wide? Would plastic surgery help here?"

Reply

Yes, but are you sure an altered nose would go with your face?

NOT A KILLER

F. D. writes: "Is arthritis a killing disease?"

Reply

Before modern remedies became available, we dubbed arthritis a disease that never killed, but never got better.

Business Mirror

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK (AP)—A bang-up June is looked for in many of the nation's basic industries. And confidence is growing today that it will be a prosperous summer for business.

Neither the fear of a steel strike nor the awareness that some industries take a seasonal breather seem to put a brake on rising confidence that recovery has turned into a fledgling boom that will grow at a faster rate than thought earlier.

This chant is loudest in Wall Street where stock prices hit new highs every few days. But take a swing out into the center of the nation and you get the same word.

The businessman in Springfield, Mo., for instance, will tell you, "everything's better now, everything's growing." His confere in the West is likely to be singing the same song.

Wall Street's optimism is catching. Rising stock prices make people feel prosperous, even if they don't own stocks. If they do, they can fondle their paper profits in their dreams, or cash in and buy something.

But business executives as well as shareholders are talking more optimistically of getting through the summer without the slump they earlier feared.

Steel buying has been at record highs. Part of this was aimed at building up stocks to live on if there is a strike, or to live on for awhile if there isn't a strike but a price rise following a wage hike.

But some steel users haven't been building up their stocks as much as they planned, because they have been using more of it than they expected in current production. Steelmen feel that if there's no strike they'll still have lots of customers.

The auto industry has been piling up new cars in dealers' hands. But each month this year, sales have risen. Auto makers say dealers won't be stuck with unsold cars when it's time for shutdowns for new model turnovers.

Business confidence is leading industry slowly to widen its plans for spending—chiefly for new equipment but also for some new plants.

And the general better feeling seems to be behind the growing volume of retail sales. That and the steadily climbing total of personal incomes.

The Federal Reserve Board's policy of tightening up the money supply hasn't had noticeable effect as yet.

Businessmen are borrowing more. Consumers are taking on more installment debt. Home builders talk confidently of finding enough mortgage money to keep residential construction going along at its recently stepped-up pace.

June is just busting out all over with optimism.

Yearbook Contains Many Features To Take Reader Down Memory Lane

Using as its central theme "Let Us Forget," the 1959 Warren High School Dragon staff has turned out another unusually fine yearbook.

General purpose of the publication is seen in this excerpt from the Foreword: We, the Class of 1959, present this yearbook with the hope of capturing and preserving a part of the best time of our lives. We hope it will bring back old and happy memories, "Let Us Forget" them and so lose the last vestige of that which we once loved so dearly. This book, many years from now, should lead us down "Memory Lane" and recapture the golden days of 1958-1959 in Warren High.

This new copy of The Dragon is dedicated to Richard G. Kauffman "in recognition of his many contributions to our school... Mr. Kauffman's sincere interest in his students and has increased their desire to learn the language of Germany and Spain. His duties as assistant track coach and advisor to both Spanish and German Clubs have won the respect and admiration of many students. We shall always remember Mr. Kauffman as a good friend, a wise counselor, and a judicious sportsman."

Lavishly illustrated with pictures of the high school which will soon take its place among other things of the past, administration and faculty, fellow-classesmen and other students, high spots in the year's many and varied activities, its 144 pages are filled to overflowing with bits designed to keep memories alive.

With Alexis Sommers as editor in chief, the Dragon board of editors has been composed of the following: Literary, Linda Whitehill and Olivia Smith; photographic, David Spencer and Michael Cashman; art, Craig Johnson; sports, Marian Peed; senior editor, Judy Hutchins; typist, Lois Henry; advisors, Miss Christine Hurd and Principal Joseph Passaro.

Handling the financial affairs incident to production of the yearbook have been the business managers, Linda Sleeman, Gail Wyman and Sue Ann Jones, with Harry Danielson as advisor and the following as their hard-working staff:

Gov. Richard Leche, overwhelmed by the developing Louisiana scandals at the time and soon to be sent to the penitentiary for his part in them, had just resigned and Earl Long, lieutenant governor, had succeeded him and was going to run for a full term on his own in the 1950 elections.

I was then with The Associated Press, which took no sides in Louisiana politics. But I went to the hotel with a reporter from the Times-Picayune, which did, and which had been a foe of the Long machine for years. We knocked on Long's door.

He came out, glared at the Times-Picayune man, said: "Who are you? What do you want?" The reporter told him what paper he was from. Long let go at him and his newspaper in language which couldn't be printed but which made hilarious retelling when we got back to our offices.

Yet this writer followed Gov. Long around Louisiana in the bitter winter of 1939-40, when he was campaigning for a full term, which he didn't get, and his energy and endurance were fantastic.

He would start out to make speech at 7 a. m. and wind up at midnight. He would travel all day through low rain and talk in the cold and dampness without hat or overcoat. As I remember it, every other member of Long's ticket went down with influenza or pneumonia before election day. Not Long.

I never saw any rough stuff around Earl. But Huey walked the earth surrounded by men whom his friends called bodyguards. His cuties called them gunmen. They made a hobby of beating up newspapermen. Once they fractured an Associated Press photographer's skull with a blackjack.

In the end they weren't able to save Long from what he dreaded most: sudden death.

If It's a Man's World They Haven't Heard It

Sometimes I have strong doubts about that old saw that "It's a man's world."

What has got me skeptical about it right now is a story telling how a Chicago judge ruled in favor of a wife who asked that her husband be prevented from taking over the kitchen in their home.

"A woman's place is in the kitchen," said the judge, enjoining the husband from buying the groceries or "over" the kitchen. From where I stand over a hot stove it looks as though women's place is in the kitchen when they want to keep a husband out of it. But a woman's place is NOT in the kitchen; it so happens that the woman would rather hold down a job than do housework, or if she would rather be a clubwoman than a kitchen slave, or if she can sell her husband on the idea that "togetherness" means that a husband ought to help with the housework.

So it looks as though we can work it any way we want to, and a poor husband never knows whether or not a woman's place is in the kitchen until he gets the word from the little woman.

If we don't want Papa messing around in the kitchen, out he goes. If we want him to buy the groceries, and help out with the cooking and dishwashing then we tell him that the new pattern for marriage is "togetherness" which means he isn't to sit in his easy chair and expect Mama to preside over the kitchen without his help.

If that's a man's world all I can say is that in a man's world a woman seems to get all the breaks.

NCAA Dist. II At Penn State This Week

Cream of the mid-Atlantic baseball crop—Penn State, Pittsburgh, Temple and Ithaca—will meet at University Park Thursday and Friday for NCAA District II playoffs.

The four teams entered are each nourishing hopes of a mid-June trip to Omaha and College World Series.

Penn State, a well-balanced sophomore-studded team, was given little chance of winning a '59 playoff berth before the campaign opened.

Pitt battles Ithaca in the first game Thursday, double-header to start at 1 p. m. Penn State goes against Temple in the 3:30 nightcap. Winners clash at 2 p. m. Friday for the District title and a June 12-18 stay in Omaha.

Two Proposals Of Interest To State Fishermen

HARRISBURG (AP)—Two proposals dear to the hearts of Pennsylvania fishermen have been cleared by the House Fisheries Committee and are up before the full House for action.

One would require opening of the trout season on the nearest Saturday following April 12 (or April 12 when it falls on Saturday). The other would require the fish commission to provide fishways at the lower Susquehanna dams of Safe Harbor and Holtwood.

The committee wrote the proposals into the streamlined fish code which it reported out for action Monday.

It also sent to the floor an overhauled water safety bill, designed for one of the most rapid-growing sports in the Commonwealth.

The principal changes the committee made in the original proposal would:

Set up a separate watercraft safety division in the Fish Commission, headed by an assistant director.

Specify that money collected from the proposed registration fee be set aside for enforcement and for construction of boating facilities.

Ease the fines for violations to a range of $10-$50.

Lower the registration fee to $2.

The committee had held a public hearing on the bill last month.

The water safety bill follows a federal act approved last year requiring that all powered boats be registered. The House proposal is designed to carry out that act in addition to setting up certain rules of behavior by boaters.

The lower Susquehanna fishways proposal has been advocated by sportsmen along the river who object that the dams have prevented certain game fish from migrating upstream.

The provision written into the new fish code by the committee states:

"The commission shall erect such chutes, slopes, fishways, gates or other devices as may be necessary at Safe Harbor and Holtwood dams to enable the fish to ascend the waters of the Susquehanna at all seasons of the year."

The Pirates presently in third place in the National League, open a 16-game home stand.

Meanwhile, Warren C. Giles, president of the National League, announced that the League will present Haddix a silver tray and a dozen sterling goblets for his performance. Giles said the award would be made sometime during the Pirates home stand.

Ten teams of Industrial Golf League were hoping to take to the Kinzua green today to play their regular games in League competition. Rain past two weeks have caused many teams to lose points as the players were unable to make up postponed games.

Playing this afternoon are: Warren Observer-Powerflight Chemical Products-Keystone Sunonsens-Carlson Mtrs National Forge-DeLuxe New Yorkers-Loranger.

Jamestown's Toby Lyons Is In U. S. Open, Fires Qualifying 144

Toby Lyons, veteran professional from Jamestown's Moon Brook Country Club, qualified for a berth in U. S. Open championship Monday when he fired a 72-72-144 to place fourth in the list of qualifiers at Orchard Park Country Club in Buffalo, Jamestown Sun reported today.

There were nine berths available and 45 top-notch golfers competing during the day's action which saw play interrupted several times because of the rain.

Orchard Park was one of 13 sectional centers across the nation at which 477 golfers sought 131 berths in the U. S. Open Championship scheduled June 11-13 at Winged Foot Club of Mamaroneck, N. Y. Nineteen others, including defending champion Tommy Bolt and Ben Hogan, were exempt from the trials.

"To play in the open is probably the biggest honor a golfer can receive," Lyons said Monday night. "I played well but I was putting just fair. I missed putts of 10 inches on the same hole twice because of the bad conditions of the greens."

Package Deal For Slice

By DOW FINSTERWALD PGA Champion

Golf is not a game of gimmicks, but gimmicks can help cure common faults of average players.

The causes of slicing can be varied, but the teaching professional always first looks for one particular fault.

Bill Johnston, Provo, Utah, pro, quickly saw that a pupil had a sure-fire way to slice. He was looping the club at the top of the backswing and hitting from the outside in, cutting across the ball at impact. Johnston was faced with the problem of proving his fault to him, and put the point across in a novel way.

"Got a pack of cigarettes?" he asked.

"Sure," the player replied, handing the smokes over, the ground about three inches.

Johnston placed the pack on behind and about an inch and a half outside the ball.

"If you are swinging inside out, the clubhead won't touch those cigarettes," he told the player.

The player swung and smashed the cigarettes and from then on made sure he hit from the inside. He got rid of the loop at the top and isn't slicing any more.

Kansas City and Detroit Jolting League Leaders

By ED WILKS
 Associated Press Sports Writer

Lightning has just struck twice in the American League pennant chase with Kansas City and Detroit, both up from the depths, jolting the bejabbers out of front-stumbling Cleveland and Chicago.

The A's and Tigers combined to take 8 of 10 games from the first place Indians and runner-up White Sox over the long holiday weekend.

Kansas City, after winning two of three at Cleveland, completed a two-game sweep at Chicago by beating the White Sox 3-1 Monday night. The Tigers, who had snatched two of three from Chicago, bagged a two-game sweep over the Indians with a 3-1 afternoon victory in the only other AL game.

The Indians now have lost three in a row and five of their last six, but still hold a one-game edge over the White Sox—who have lost two in a row and seven of their last nine for nothing more than a half-game lead over third-place Baltimore.

Ray Moore, (1-3) lost it, giving up eight hits as the A's won their third in a row.

Paul Foytack and Eddie Yost got the job done for the Tigers, who have won seven of eight since slipping into the cellar with a first-game defeat in a May 24 doubleheader with Cleveland.

Kansas City, in seventh place not long ago and seven games behind just a week ago, now is fourth, with a 3 1/2 games of the top. The Tigers, last and 9 1/2 games behind only nine days ago, are fifth, 4 1/2 games back.

Southpaw Bud Daley, who has breezed through three consecutive complete games in four starts since quitting his relief role, beat the White Sox a second time in that span with seven-hitter for a 4-3 record. Joe DeMaestri was the guy with the bat for the A's, scoring the winner on a wild pitch tripling home the tying run and in a two-run fifth. Then he hit his third homer in the seventh inning for the final run.

Paul Foytack and Eddie Yost got the job done for the Tigers, who have won seven of eight since slipping into the cellar with a first-game defeat in a May 24 doubleheader with Cleveland.

Giants Running Hot After Chilling Milwaukee Braves

By ED WILKS
 Associated Press Sports Writer

It was San Francisco that finally cooled off Milwaukee when the Braves looked ready to tear the National League race wide open with a 4 1/2-game bulge. Now it's the Giants who are running hot and the Braves who have to do the chilling.

Just two weeks ago the Braves ran the league's longest winning streak to six games at San Francisco. That's when the Giants stepped in, salvaging the finale of a three-game series. They have lost only 3 of 11 since.

The runner-up Giants stayed with it Monday night, opening a four-game series at Milwaukee with a runaway 11-2 victory that whittled the Braves' lead to 1 1/2 games. It was the only game scheduled in the NL.

The Giants won their third in a row with six runs in the third inning against young Joey Jay (2-4).

The Braves suffered a couple of casualties as well as the defeat, losing Hank Aaron and catcher Del Rice. Aaron, his batting average down to .415 after three consecutive hitless games, left after the fifth inning when the cold weather affected an old back injury.

Rice suffered a bad shin bruise as Willie Mays slid home with the first run in the eighth-inning splurge.

The Braves suffered a couple of

Horse Racing Referendum Up For Another Try

HARRISBURG (AP)—The horse racing referendum bill was ready for another try for passage today in the legislative derby.

But there was no assurance that it would run, let alone that it would gain approval by House members.

On previous occasions, supporters have postponed a showdown at virtually the last minute. It happened again Monday when Rep. H. J. Maxwell (D-Westmoreland), noting the absence of four potential votes, scratched the bill for another day.

Maxwell, who is sponsoring the measure, said he would try again today.

The prospects were that if the bill is brought to a vote, it will face the same fate as has befallen similar proposals defeated in previous sessions.

That seemed certain after Gov. Lawrence said he would veto the bill unless the date for the referendum on the question of legalizing pari-mutuel betting was changed to a primary election, rather than the November election.

When Maxwell tried to amend the bill last week to have the referendum at the 1961 primary, Republicans—with some help from Democrats—held him off.

Maxwell has conceded that the conflict over dates has cost him potential supporters.

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sam Snead says the National Open Golf championship "takes too much time and costs too much money."

Don't misunderstand. The slammer, who barely qualified Monday for this year's open, will try again for the title that has eluded him in all these years of campaigning.

But he doesn't think much of the system inaugurated this year by the U.S. Golf Assn. It now requires all but 19 exempt golfers to qualify in two 36-hole tests. Snead wonders whether the dollar reward offsets the time and strain for golfers who play for a living.

Snead almost didn't get to make the final strain. Although he didn't know it at the time, he needed a birdie on the last hole of the sectional held in a steady drizzle. He got it with a pitch five feet from the pin and finished with a 72-70-142 over the 6,558-yard par 70 Congressional Country Club Course. One more stroke and he would have flunked out.

Women Invade the Squared Circle: More Challengers

MCADAM New Brunswick (AP)—Canada's first women's boxing match is on record today and the verdict seems to be "mama stay home."

Despite some intriguing pre-fight statements by combatants Myrna McConvey and Mrs. June Louder, Monday night's five-rounder between the 20-year-old stenographer and the 37-year-old grandmother turned out to be pretty tame.

The crowd of 672 got a few laughs—and Miss McConvey got a unanimous decision—but the bout itself was nothing for Floyd Patterson to worry about.

Promoter Jake MacDonald scheduled the "match" at the urging of Mrs. Louder, a grandmother from nearby Vanceboro, Maine, who thought a women's bout on the regular Monday night card might pep up attendance.

"I'm as hard as rock and as strong as a moose," said the 5-2½ Mrs. Louder, who weighed in at 142. "I got my strength from hard work, raking blueberries, picking potatoes, running boards. I got a good right arm. I'll be using my right."

"I've done lots of road work and a little sparring and I'm willing," said Miss McConvey, a 5-6, 122 pound steno from St. Stephen, N.N.

The "sparring," she said with a twinkle, "was with some of the young fellows" in St. Stephen.

Clad in shorts and blouses, they indulged in five rounds of energetic but harmless scuffling.

Killebrew Was Furnished Proof He Had Arrived

BY HARRY GRAYSON
NEA Sports Editor

WASHINGTON—(NEA)—Before the season's start, the Alexandria, Va., apartment of the Harmon Clayton Killebrews was pretty bare.

"We didn't bother furnishing it," said Eileen Killebrew. "We didn't know whether we'd be around very long."

A furniture dealer felt more secure about Washington's biggest drawing card since Walter Johnson, especially as Harmon Killebrew continued swatting home runs, making a habit of belting two in a game. He furnished the Killebrew apartment from carpet to refrigerator.

Killebrew was up for his fifth chance, and while he manufactured 17 home runs in 36 games with Chattanooga, there was considerable doubt about his remaining even with an outfit as lowly as the Senators.

Killebrew's only previous experience prior to reporting to Griffith Stadium was with the Payette, Idaho, Packers, a none too fast semi-professional team, and the bonus rule forced Charley Dressen, then the manager, to suffer with the lad for two years.

Killebrew has the distinction of being the only Senator ever scouted and recommended by a senator, the late Herman Welker of Idaho.

KILLEBREW HAD TO COME the hard way. After learning to throw properly and field acceptably, Harmon, not yet 23, had to become acquainted with the strike zone.

The minute Killebrew could be sent out in 1956 he was shipped to Charlotte of the South Atlantic League, where he quickly began to find the home run range with 15 in 70 games. It was 29 in 142 for Chattanooga in '57.

Seated in a bus at the Orlando, Fla., training base a year ago, Killebrew, who speaks only when talked to, believed he was on his way back to Washington, but the ax fell again.

"Get off the bus," said the man in charge. "You're going to Indianapolis."

"Well," somebody said. "It's raining. I'll call you a cab."

"Never mind," said Killebrew, picking up his suitcase and slowly walking up a hill.

"SURE I WAS DEPRESSED" when sent down again," he recalls, "but I wasn't discouraged."

Killebrew hit no more than .215 for Indianapolis, again wound up in Chattanooga. But he found the strike zone and his fielding at third base improved with his hitting.

Killer Killebrew is just what the doctor ordered for a wobbly franchise and league—an exciting ballplayer who can hang the ball out of any park in any direction.

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—Next to the New York Yankees tail-spin the most talked of subject in baseball is Henry (call - me-Hank) Aaron.

From the first day he reported to the Braves' training camp in 1954, Aaron has been tabbed as a can't miss baseball great. And in less than six years he has reached a point where today he is recognized as a natural great hitter, in the sense that Williams and Stan Musial are.

Unlike Williams and Musial, the right-handed Aaron has no special theories on batting.

"I just leave the dugout swinging," he said. "The secret of hitting is to keep swinging."

Aaron is a great ball hitter. Aaron has been accused of not caring—or knowing—who's pitching, whether it's a righty or a lefty, whether the pitch is a curve or a fast ball, just as long as the ball gets to where he can reach it.

Hank resents that. He denies a story that after he had been informed that the pitcher he had whacked for four straight hits was Robin Roberts, he asked, "who's he?" He says it's not true that when he has two strikes, his answer was "the baseball."

"A lot of people think I'm a dummy," he said. "I'm not dumb when it comes to hitting. I do a lot of thinking about it. I keep it up here (and he tapped the side of his head). I study the pitchers all the time, and when I find one giving me trouble, I study him extra hard. I want to know why he's getting me out, and what I can do about it."

Jaycees Launch Finance Drive For Celebration

As most everybody knows by now, the Warren Jaycees are in the midst of making preparations for the annual 4th of July celebration and are also soliciting support for the tremendous project.

Since the Jaycees began to sponsor the event twelve years ago, it has remained their principle to provide a program of community wide interest and one that will keep Warren citizens within the borough limits and off the highways on the Fourth of July.

This year's celebration will again feature the crowning of a "Miss Warren County," a street dance; the annual gala parade and, for the first time in several years, a Drum Corps competition is being revived in cooperation with the American Legion Drum and Bugle Corps.

Other entertainment will feature a County Firemen's competition and water battle with a traditional fireworks display to conclude the festivities.

The annual 4th of July celebrations have been successful in the past because of the generous encouragement and support received from Warren merchants, industry and individuals.

Those who are in agreement that these celebrations are an important part of community life are urged to contribute as generously as possible to help insure a successful and safe 4th of July again this year.

Letters pertaining to the Jaycee annual event are in the mail and include a postage paid return envelope for convenience in returning contributions to the organization.

Dial Service

manager of the Bell Company, said today that telephone technicians have completed their final tests of the new equipment and everything is in readiness for the big change.

As the zero hour of 3:01 approaches next Sunday morning, a group of telephone men will be standing in the new Randolph office waiting for the signal which will climax the Bell Company's $2,200,000 service improvement program here.

In their hands, the men will hold the ends of strings which have been attached to small tools inserted between the springs in the new dial equipment to prevent connections between the new equipment and customers' telephones.

These strings will be attached to large groups of tools so that a single pull of one master string will pull hundreds of tools simultaneously.

When the supervisor in charge of the cutover operation gives the signal by calling out one word — "Pull!" — the men will pull the first master strings and then rush to other master strings to pull them. As the tools fly out, the springs will snap together and automatically connect large groups of customer telephones to the new dial switching equipment.

The entire pulling operation will take only about one minute and, when it is completed, Warren will join the rapidly growing list of American communities with 100 per cent dial-operated telephones and direct dialing of long distance calls.

First official call handled by the new Randolph office will be made by Burgess William E. Rice.

When the Randolph office begins operation, all local calls will be completed by listening for dialtone then dialing the first two letters of the central office name Randolph and the five figures of the desired number, Anstadt said. A customer calling Randolph 3-1469, for example, would dial the letters R and A, then the figures 3, 1, 4, 6 and 9 in order.

This same two-letter-five-figure dialing method will be used by all local customers in calling Logan telephones in Youngsville and Plateau telephones in Russell, the manager added. These telephones are included within the local calling area of the Randolph office.

From individual and two-party telephones, except coin telephones, customers will be able to dial calls direct to telephones served by many central offices in this general area of western Pennsylvania, Anstadt stated. On these calls, the two-letter-five-figure dialing method will also be used.

Direct dialing of calls will require use of a three-figure area numbering code before the letters and figures of the number being called, he explained.

For example, to call Bayview 1-9970 in San Francisco, the caller would first dial the three-figure area code 415 for San Francisco, then dial the letters B and A and the figures 1, 9, 9, 7 and 0 in order.

"The nationwide numbering plan divides the United States and Canada into approximately 100 areas, each designated by a three-figure area numbering code," Anstadt said.

"The Randolph central office is located in the area designated by the code figures 814 and the Pittsburgh area, for example, is designated by 412."

Complete instructions for making local and out-of-town calls are summarized in a special dial instruction booklet prepared for telephone customers in this area in preparation for the change to dial operation, he added.

These instructions are also summarized in the information pages of the new telephone directory just delivered here.

Both the instruction booklet and the information pages of the directory list distant points which can be dialed direct, along with the special three-figure area code to be used.

Anstadt urged all Warren customers who may not have received copies of the dial instruction booklet or the new directory to contact the Bell Company business office promptly.

neither the Warren borough council nor the county has adopted a budget, but it stands to reason that both will figure budgets on the new 1959 assessments. Warren Area school board has adopted its budget based on 1958 figures.

The way it looks from here, with a ceiling on income that may be realized by the taxing bodies, there should be no drastic increase in taxes, with a strong possibility that existing millage may be reduced to meet the legal financial requirements. To date no definite time for adoption of 1959 budgets by borough council and county has been set.

In the matter of new assessments, a schedule of informal hearings pertaining to same will be held at the Warren county courthouse. The hearings will be conducted from 9:00 a. m. to 5:00 p. m. and from 7:00 p. m. until 9:00 p. m. and property owners are urged to attend the hearings on the proper day listed if they desire to be further enlightened or have some grievance as to assessments.

The county commissioners advise that property owners need not file a letter of appeal in order to consult concerning or to look over the new 1959 reassessment figures. Opportunity is provided in the scheduled hearing dates for various tax districts.

The schedule follows and it is suggested that property owners make a note of date listed for taxing district. June 8 — Brokenstraw, Columbus, Spring Creek Twp. and Bear Lake borough; June 9 — Deerfield, Eldred, Freehold, and South West Townships; June 10 — Corydon, Glade and Kinzua Twp.;

June 11 — Limestone, Triumph, Watson Twp. and Tidouete borough; June 12 — Cherry Grove and Sheffield Twp.;

June 13 — Conewango Twp.; June 14 — Pittsford Township and Youngsville borough; June 15 — Farmington and Sugar Grove Twp. and Sugar Grove borough.

Bitter

Soviet foreign ministers Monday.

The bitter debate raised new doubts about the possibility of an agreement lifting the Soviet threat to West Berlin. The Western Allies say unless they get such an agreement, they won't join Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev in a summit conference.

Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko requested a full-scale conference session today, reportedly to let Foreign Minister Lothar Bolz of Communist East Germany speak on the Berlin situation.

Bolz was expected to echo the Soviet Union's demand that the Western powers abandon West Berlin to neutralized rule.

It was assumed he also would argue that this would ease East-West tensions by ending Western use of the city to wage subversion, espionage and propaganda warfare against Communist East Germany.

Gromyko already has denounced West Berlin as a hotbed of intrigue.

Herter counterattacked with charges of Communist subversion, espionage and propaganda based in East Berlin. He also rejected Gromyko's demand that the United States muzzle its powerful RIAS, the radio in the American sector, which beams German-language programs to the Communist East.

Herter, British Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd and French Foreign Minister Maurice Couve de Murville planned to continue this campaign, tailoring it to whatever line Bolz took. Later, officials said, the Western ministers might mount a full-scale attack on the Red use of East Berlin.

The Western ministers are determined that any agreement made to curtail international dirty work in Berlin must apply to the Communist as well as to the Western sector of the city.

The secret talks which began last Thursday apparently were getting the ministers no closer to a solution of the Berlin problem than the semi-public sessions earlier. Asst. U.S. Secretary of State Andrew H. Berding told a news conference "very little progress has been made in the private talks toward a solution of the problems before the conference."

State Police Trooper Earl Klinger, sitting in his car, said parts of bodies and debris crashed through his windshield. He avoided injury by hurling himself beneath the dashboard.

Scene of the crash is about 100 miles northeast of Philadelphia. Sgt. Clouser gave this official version of the tragedy:

"About 8:15 a. m. (EDT) we got a report of a tanker on fire south of Schuylkill Haven at a place known as Red Church on Route 122.

"We sent a trooper who set himself up about 300 feet away to divert traffic from the scene. Two fire companies arrived to fight the flames.

"A number of people left their cars to see what the holdup was. They gathered around our trooper handling the traffic. About 8:45 a. m. the tanker let loose. There was a terrific explosion.

"The flames swept up the road like a ball of fire killing eight or nine around the trooper. He was saved by ducking behind the police car.

"As far as we know there was no collision. We don't know what caused the fire. Sometimes these tankers catch fire for some unexplainable reason."

There was no immediate identification of the victims.

Three Air Force Men Die in Bomber Crash

HEMET, Calif. (AP)—Three Air Force men were killed early today when a jet bomber crashed, scattering wreckage and flaming fuel across an open ranchland near Hemet.

A fourth crewman wandered from the wreck, dazed and burned, into the arms of a motorist attracted by the flames.

The survivor told a sheriff's deputy: "I don't know what happened. We were on our (landing) approach and everything seemed all right."

He couldn't say how he got out of the plane, but investigators said he was apparently thrown clear.

Farmer Solves Disappearance of Jamestown Trio

CHARLESTON, S. C. (AP)—A farmer looking for stray cows Monday found the wreckage of a light plane that carried three persons to death a week ago.

The bodies of Floyd Carlson, 28; his wife Mae, 24; and Sandy Scarantino, 46, all of Jamestown, N. Y., were in the wrecked plane. Authorities said they apparently were killed instantly.

The plane, rented in Jamestown, had been missing since May 25. The three were en route from Jamestown to Orlando, Fla.

The craft fell about 100 yards from a woodland road, and landed in a cluster of young cypress trees. The plane was in about a foot of water. There was some gasoline in the tank, but there had been no fire.

The Civil Aeronautics Administration began an investigation to determine the cause of the accident.

Storm Lashes Area, Bolt Kills Workman

Hard rains pounded the area late Monday afternoon, dumping .61 inch of rain in Warren. Darkened skies ripped open shortly after 4 p. m., sending down heavy thunderstorms. Lightning accompanied the storm.

A 36-year-old Oil City man was killed when struck by a bolt near North East. Robert J. Schmitzer, highway inspector, was killed instantly at 2:15 p. m. More details are contained in a story elsewhere in today's edition.

Bell Telephone had "wet" lines on Conewango avenue vicinity, knocking service out for about 7 lines. Service went out about 7 p. m. and was restored at 10:30.

Pennsylvania Electric had a 4,000 volt line down in the Beech Hill and Stone Rd. vicinity. Residents on Beech Hill were without electricity for about an hour, Lyle Shafer of Penelec said.

Allegheny river rose to 3.25 feet, one quarter of an inch higher than Monday. The river was rising slowly.

Room Services For Bradford Hospital Hiked

Bradford Era: Faced by rising operating cost and a deficit the budget committee of Bradford Hospital over the weekend announced increases in room rates for patients admitted on and after today.

Described as nominal, the increases are $1 and $1.50 a day, depending upon the room classification.

Hospital administrator Robert Cole pointed out that although costs "have risen considerably since room rates were last increased in January, 1956, the directors had been reluctant to increase the rates." He went on:

"But it is now necessary to do so if our hospital is to maintain the high standard of medical care that has been furnished the community since 1885."

The breakdown of the old and new rates by room classifications follows:

Ward, from $11 to $12.50; nursery, $5.50 to $7 semi-private, $14 to $15 and $16, to $15, $16 and $17, respectively, and private, $18 to $20 and $22, to $19, $21 and $23 respectively.

It was emphasized that the new rate structure does not affect patients admitted on or before May 31.

BEAR LAKE ELECTION

The Bear Lake Volunteer Fire Department has elected Claude Crosby to the post of president for the coming year. Merritt Smith was named vice president and Thomas Smith secretary. Balance of the slate named at the annual election included Harvey Martin, corresponding secretary; Wilton Weavers, treasurer; Reno Berkeley, trustee; Gerald Crosby, fire chief; and John Zahk, assistant fire chief.

Also elected were Walter Newhouse, second assistant fire chief; Adolph Hamm, senior captain; Donald Carter, junior captain; Ivan Ayling, first lieutenant; and Edward Snow, second lieutenant. The company also named delegates to the annual Northwestern Pennsylvania Volunteer Firemen's Convention. They are Harvey Martin, Paul Vanord and Merritt Smith.

RACER KILLED

A dispatch from Olean, N. Y., says a 23-year-old Hinsdale truck driver, injured when he was thrown from his rolling auto in a stock car race Friday night at Angelica, died Saturday night in Jones Memorial Hospital, Wellsville. John Emery Miller, Main Street, Hinsdale, father of two, lived for 24 hours following the crash, but never regained consciousness, the hospital said. He sustained a skull fracture, crushed chest and ruptured lung, according to Dr. E. Stanley Webster, Friendship, an Allegheny County coroner, who said Mr. Miller's car skidded and rolled over several times, after bunching with "two or three others" in the 27-car race. The crash was on a bend in the track at the Allegheny County Fairgrounds, he said. Admitted to the hospital shortly after 10 p.m. Friday, the driver died there at the same hour Saturday.

Belle Appeals Revocation of U. S. Passport

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil (AP)—Earl Belle, one time Pittsburgh financier charged with fraud says he will abide by the decision of Washington officials on his appeal from the revocation of his passport by the U. S. State Dept. Belle made the appeal Monday in an hour-long closed hearing in the office of U. S. Consul Malcolm Hallam in the U. S. Embassy here. But before the hearing started, he said:

"I want to return home to Pittsburgh very quickly."

He added, however, that it was impossible since his wife, Naomi, is expecting a baby in three weeks and is unable to travel. He said he does not want to leave the country without his wife.

Belle was ordered to surrender his passport to the U. S. Consul at Rio de Janeiro, validating it for travel only to the United States.

Belle refused, claiming the State Dept had no right to revoke it. He has applied for a permanent Brazilian visa. If the Brazilian Justice Ministry turns down the request, Belle would be given a time limit to leave the country.

However, should Belle's child come first before any action is taken on the request, Belle would be protected by the Brazilian constitution from being forced to leave.

Belle says, however, that he does not intend to use this provision in the constitution which holds that parents of a Brazilian-born child cannot be forced to leave the country.

Indian Teepees And Log Fort At Gateway Center

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Indian teepees shaded by giant buildings stand out in sharp contrast today to display Pittsburgh's 200 years of progress — from an old log fort to one of the world's top industrial centers.

Indians, brought in from reservations, set up the teepees as part of the city's bicentennial festival. Their village is located in Point Park, focal point of the celebration and near the city's brilliant display of modern buildings — Gateway Center.

To further add to the display of progress, a big atomic reactor stands near the teepees. Spreading out from there are hundreds of displays and amusements, recalling highlights of the city's growth.

All are combined productions of city officials, many city industries, civic groups and citizens. They add color to a mammoth birthday party which runs through Sept. 22. The world is invited.

The celebration was launched officially Memorial Day with the setting up of the "dancing waters," a giant fountain, at the park.

Worry of FALSE TEETH Slipping or Irritating

Don't be embarrassed by loose false teeth slipping, dropping or wobbling when you eat, talk or laugh. Just sprinkle a little FAS-TEETH on your plates. This pleasant powder gives a remarkable sense of added comfort and security by holding plates more firmly. No gummy, gooey, pasty taste or feeling. It's alkaline (non-acid). Get FAS-TEETH at any drug counter.

Renovation for Season Brass Reorganizes Warren's NG Company I

Conneaut Lake Park, long known as "Pennsylvania's Perfect Playground", has taken on a new look for the upcoming season.

Situated on western shore of Conneaut Lake, the lake's name is of Indian origin, meaning "Snow Waters".

A new Scramble car will be delivered shortly and put into operation for the summer season. It will be located next to the Dodge on a site formerly occupied by the Whip, which has been rebuilt and moved next to the Flying Scooter.

New cars, lights and fresh paint spark the Dodge game. The Tumble Bug, too, presents appearance of a new ride.

The Park is stressing more lighting this year, with lights in the trees. Beach Club, the smart night rendezvous, has been redecorated with new lighting effects.

Bath house has new showers, toilet facilities and other conveniences. Beach has been extended 150 feet in length and 50 feet in width.

Picnic bookings and vacation and convention reservations are ahead of last year. Beautiful flower gardens, green lawns and plenty of shade trees, as well as paved parking lots, are enjoyed by the thousands who visit Conneaut Lake Park annually.

Warren's 70 Pennsylvania Army National Guardsmen went "Pentomic" Monday.

What has been known as Company I of 112th Infantry Regiment, 28th Infantry Division, will become headquarters and one rifle platoon of Company A, First Battle Group, 112th Infantry.

The Company is being split between Warren and Corry because of the increased size of the rifle company under 28th Division's five-sided Pentomic organization.

Pentomic program is designed to prepare National Guard for possible atomic land warfare.
